

The new president has arrived at UTD

The University of Texas at Dallas' new president Dr. Robert H. Rutford has arrived on campus. Dr. Rutford moved into his office on campus May 17.

The Board of Regents of the University of Texas appointed him Feb. 12. He comes to UTD from the University of Nebraska's main campus at Lincoln, where he was vice chancellor for research and graduate studies.

In a brief interview with the UTD MERCURY he said that it will take him a little time to adjust to the all commuter and slightly older student body at UTD. "For 20 years it has been freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors and graduate students living in dorms. Now it is just juniors, seniors and graduate students."

Rutford said that having college students living in the house with him has been a significant help to him as a college administrator. His two sons have just graduated and his daughter will be a junior at the University of Nebraska this fall.

On Friday June 4 there was a reception held for Dr. Rutford and his wife Margie to meet the UTD community.

In a short speech Rutford said, "While I have this opportunity I think it is only fitting that all of you and Margie and I extend to Alex a word of thanks and deep appreciation for the work he has done this past year . . . my impression as I arrived here at the University of Texas at Dallas is that Alex has left the shop in pretty good shape."

Next issue due out July 19

UTD MERCURY will be published July 19 and Aug. 23 during the summer.

Advertising deadline for July 19 is Friday, July 9. News deadline is Monday noon, July 12.

JUST A FEW of the record enrollment of summer session students, as they went through registration lines June 1-2.

Summer term enrollment at highest: 4,233

The University of Texas at Dallas was off to its biggest summer term in history, with a net registration of 4,233 as of Monday, June 7.

A count made one year earlier saw summer enrollment at 3,734, with a later increase to the 3,800 level.

There will be additional registration for Summer II courses on Thursday and Friday, July 8-9.

faculty in 1975. His devotion to and excellence in teaching was recognized by his having received meritorious awards—the Amoco Foundation Award at UTD and the University of Arizona Foundation Award. The David Craigie Memorial Fund was created in the fall of 1981, and contributions for annual scholarships may be sent to the fund in care of the Dean's office, School of Social Sciences.

VanCleve gets Craigie award

The first annual David Craigie Student Award was presented at a special ceremony on May 21. Pamela J. VanCleve was chosen to be the 1982 recipient by a Social Sciences faculty committee whose recommendation was made in light of the criteria established by the Craigie family and Social Sciences colleagues. Mrs. Beth Craigie announced the awardee and presented a certificate and scholarship check. David Craigie Student Award winners are Social Sciences students who distinguish themselves academically, who show a desire to continue scholarly endeavors, and who exhibit the qualities of Dr. Craigie—a concern for humane issues, involvement in the university and the community, integrity, and a willingness to stand up for convictions.

Miss VanCleve obtained her undergraduate degree in geography and is currently working towards the M.A. in Political Economy. As an undergraduate she served on Social Sciences Student Steering Committee and is now an elected member of the Student Activities Board.

A letter from the editor:

MERCURY is the messenger for you

Hello everybody! On behalf of the staff here at the UTD MERCURY I bring you this heart warming welcome to UTD this summer.

First I want to talk about history, that is the history of this paper. In a student survey not long ago (spring 1980) the imaginative students at UTD were asked to select a name for the student newspaper.

Much thought was given to the many names the selection committee had looked at. The name selected was MERCURY. I kind of like that name; sounds good. And did you know that our mascot is the COMETS?

But before you start conjuring up images of planets and outer space, that is not the Mercury this news paper is emulating. If that was the case some people might think we are a little far out.

Our prestigious publication is named after that wing-footed guy that delivers flowers. You know him. In Roman mythology he was the messenger of the Gods. We may not be the messenger of the gods (we are down to earth) but we are the messenger of the students at UTD. A prolific distributor of news and information, we are.

I am the third editor of the UTD MERCURY and I will do my best along with my colleague, Business manager Carrie Threadgill, to bring you the best student newspaper possible.

We are fortunate enough to still have the timeless wit and wisdom of Al Mitchell nearby to help us with a variety of things while putting together the MERCURY.

And then there is our illustrious adviser Dr. Sheila Simmons who brings professionalism as well as many other talents to the MERCURY.

You too, can join the staff. If you want to be a reporter call us at 690-2286 or come by and see us. The staff along with Dr. Simmons will be operating in SU 2.106 and SU 2.108.

I will be here through out the long hot summer. You know, they are already talking about us. I heard a weatherman say the other day "... this summer the MERCURY could rise to its highest."

ETC to offer training plan for reporters

The ETC (Effective Techniques Center) has implemented a program to train reporters, researchers, and writers. Dr. Paula Grinnell is the coordinator of learning services and it was basically her idea to start this program to assist the staff of the UTD MERCURY.

Dr. Grinnell says that ETC has many things going for it to make it an adequate training ground for reporters. "I have access to the kinds of knowledge news paper reporters will need. We have a flexible set up so we could accommodate time wise and structure wise the kind of course that could be developed." She said.

Other advantages of this program is that it gives those looking for career direction a feel of being a writer/journalist. It also provides valuable interviewing and research techniques that can be used in many fields of study and or careers. Classes will start June 22 at 2 p.m. in the ETC area located in MC 3.202. Call 690-2746 for more details.
