NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION MAKES GRANT FOR THIRD EARTH SCIENCES SHORT COURSE, GIVEN FOR COLLEGE TEACHERS

National Science Foundation has made a $14,260 grant to the Southwest Center for Advanced Studies in support of a third summer short course for college geology teachers.

The course will be planned and presented during the summer of 1969, by the SCAS' Geosciences Division faculty. Prof. Anton L. Hales is head of the division.

More than 50 college teachers have attended similar courses, given in 1967 and 1968. Eleven states, and college locations ranging from Westfield, Mass., to Redding, Calif., were represented in the 1968 session.
