AGU cannot publish any works without a properly effected copyright transfer agreement.

INFORMATION CONCERNING YOUR COPYRIGHT AGREEMENT

The Copyright Law enacted in 1978 requires the American Geophysical Union to obtain specific rights to articles published. This legal requirement does not alter in any way the long-standing relationship between AGU and its authors, nor does it change the philosophy behind our practice of copyrighting our journals and books.

AGU's philosophy recognizes the need to ensure that authors have a say in how their works are used and the necessity to foster broad dissemination of scientific literature while protecting the viability of the publication system. Authors still retain all proprietary rights other than copyright (such as patent rights), the right to present the material orally, the right to reproduce figures, tables, and extracts properly cited.

Permission to Deposit an Article in an Institutional Repository

AGU allows authors to deposit their journal articles if the version is the final published citable version of record, the AGU copyright statement is clearly visible on the posting, and the posting is made 6 months after official publication by the AGU.

Public Domain

Work prepared by U.S. Government employees in their official capacities is not subject to copyright in the United States. Such authors may place their papers in the public domain, which means that it may be freely copied, republished, and redistributed. In order for the work to be placed in the public domain, all authors must be official U.S. Government employees. If at least one author of the work was privately employed, copyright should be transferred to AGU by any of the privately employed authors.

Works Prepared by Both Privately Employed Persons and Official U.S. Government Employees

To ensure that we can continue to promote wide availability of our publications, AGU requests all non-U.S. Government employees to transfer copyright to us. This transfer permits us to continue publishing our journals and books in all their various formats, to grant permission to abstracting and indexing services to cover our publications, and to grant permission for photocopying beyond the limits defined in the law. In instances where authorship consists of both U.S. Government and privately employed individuals, we require at least one privately employed author to transfer copyright to AGU. This kind of transfer provides ultimate protection and broad dissemination of the work.

Rights Other Than Copyright

Privately employed authors who have written articles in their official capacities as employees should also transfer copyright to AGU. The author's employer retains the same rights as individual authors. AGU claims no right to the work other than copyright; the author's employer retains all other rights such as patent rights.

Works Supported by U.S. Government Grants or Contracts

Authors who are publishing works supported by a U.S. Government grant or contract are requested to transfer copyright to AGU. This kind of transfer permits the broad dissemination of the work while recognizing the U.S. Government's prior license to use the work for noncommercial purposes.

Copyright Permission for Reprinted/Modified Figures/Tables

If any of the figures/tables in your article are reprinted or modified from another source (this includes any that were redrawn but are basically unaltered or have only slight modifications), you must obtain and provide AGU with original letter(s) (fax or e-mail not acceptable) from the copyright holder(s) granting permission to use them in your article before your article may be published. If the original copyright holder has given blanket permission for reuse with credit, a copy of the published permission statement is sufficient. If the material is in the public domain, please provide confirmation of this in an original letter. Material originally published in AGU publications does not require copyright permission as long as proper credit is given.
