

David Fricks' "GRS79."

Two artists exhibit at UTD

Two art exhibits now appearing on the UTD campus are Patricia Thornley's creations in the Visual Arts Gallery, and David Fricks' presentation of paintings in McDermott Library Special Collections.

Using materials such as earth, water, film, wood, wax, slides and photographs, Thornley, an Atlanta artist, strives to create an environment. Her exhibit will appear through Feb. 3.

Entitled "3° Kelvin and Dropping: a presentation of paintings," Fricks' work consists of paintings in oil, pencil and acrylic, acrylic, and one oil on PVC called "Core-samples (The Human Carnival)." Fricks is a Dallas artist and illustrator and his work will be on display through Jan. 31.

Patricia Thornley's "Untitled."